A Message from Our President, Dr. Francis E. Dorsey (Excerpted from Convention Welcome Message)

Dear Members of Alpha Kappa Mu:

On behalf of our host institution, Alabama A&M University, the Kappa Sigma Chapter and the Executive Board of Alpha Kappa Mu National Honor Society, I would like to welcome you to the 62nd Convention and the historic 75th Anniversary of the founding of our organization. Our conference theme “Scholarship, Leadership, and Service: Repositioning Alpha Kappa Mu to Meet New Challenges of the Present and Future” is part of our continuing need and process to build and maintain this organization and the principles upon which it was established. Our role is also to remain true to the commitment established by representatives of the founding colleges and universities, and the men and women who had the vision and wisdom in 1937 to establish a general scholarship honor society open to junior and senior men and women in all academic disciplines.

From the founding of this organization, we understood the value of recognizing and rewarding students who achieve academically. We understood the need to build our universities from within through academic achievement, but we also understood the need to take what we have learned to build our external communities. We understood the role that Alpha Kappa Mu has played and continues to play in promoting, developing and maintaining a viable academic perspective on university campuses and in our communities. This is our heritage, this is our legacy.

We have come a long way since 1937, with 67 active chapters and 91,990 members; and we are pleased that you have joined us in our celebration of 75 years of understanding the real significance of the statement—knowledge is power. And we cherish the words of the noble sage Ptahhotep who wrote in the oldest book in the world: “Do not be arrogant because of your knowledge, but confer with the ignorant man as with the learned.” As we embrace the theme of this conference on our 75th Anniversary, let us also re-embrace the basic principles of Alpha Kappa Mu: character, scholarship, citizenship, service, and leadership.

We would like to thank you the students and advisors who make up every facet of this organization. Students, without you we would not have an organization to call our own.

Sincerely,

Dr. Frances E. Dorsey, Associate Professor
(aka Dr. Kewsi Atta Dorsey)

Conference Highlights

Kappa Eta Chapter (Virginia Union University) Wins Two Convention Awards: "Attendance Award" and "Traveled the Farthest Award"

The Kappa Eta Chapter thoroughly enjoyed attending the annual convention. According to Emily Piercy, "We were afforded the opportunity to meet other students from different chapters and to talk about programs that they do on their campus."

After talking to the members, we decided to implement some of the ideas and programs we learned about at the convention in our own chapter. We gained more pride in this organization [Alpha Kappa Mu] after attending this convention.

We learned about the prominent history and participated in workshops. One of our members, Kendra Waddy participated on the 'Survival Strategies' forum during one of the sessions."

Florida A&M University (Kappa Iota Chapter) Inducts Eleven Members, Fall 2012

On Friday, November 30, 2012, the Kappa Iota Chapter held its fall induction ceremony and welcomed eleven members (3 graduate and 8 undergraduate) into fellowship.

The program was presided over by Mr. Joseph Etienne, chapter president, who also provided the greetings and invocation. Kappa Iota Alumnus Alex DeJarnett delivered the history and occasion, Alumna Briget Horne presented the inductees, and chapter advisor Dr. Veronica Yon introduced the speaker, Dr. Ralph Turner, a Distinguished 3M Professor of Chemistry in the College of Science and Technology at Florida A&M University.

Dr. Turner began by sharing his early experiences as a student and as a mentee of AKM founder, Dr. George Gore. Turner noted that Gore "felt scholarship was something sacred" and continued by challenging inductees to conduct research to solve problems of the nation. He also shared other nuggets of wisdom: 1. Believe in yourself even when others conspire against you; 2. Don't go with the flow; you are the flow; 3. Study hard, for nothing is promised to you; 4. No one can receive more from a system than one puts into it (entropy); 5. Consider teaching because it permeates all professions; 6. Know yourself (your strengths and weaknesses) in order to prepare yourself for what is ahead; 7. Like the astronomer Kepler, repeat your steps until you get them right, and 8. Keep God on your side.

Following his address, the chapter presented Dr. Turner with a certificate of appreciation and Interim University President, Dr. Larry Robinson, provided closing remarks.

Kappa Iota Chapter (Florida A&M University) Inducts Ten Members, Spring 2013

The Kappa Iota Chapter of Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society inducted ten members (2 graduates and 8 undergraduates) during its spring ceremony, which was held on Friday, March 29, 2013 in Tallahassee, FL.

Program participants included Mr. Joseph Etienne, president, who provided the greetings; Mr. Leland Hall, vice-president, invocation; Ms. Cierra Newman, member, history and occasion; Ms. Tiffanie Morris, secretary, presentation of inductees; and Dr. Veronica Yon, advisor, introduction of speaker.

The keynote speaker, Mr. Alex DeJarnett is a 2010 graduate inductee of the Kappa Iota Chapter; he is also the Coordinator of Student Services in the College of Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences at Florida A&M University where he advises first through fourth year professional students.

Mr. DeJarnett's address focused primarily on the importance of leadership and being prepared for one's call to lead. For DeJarnett, his call took him to Africa and essentially changed his life. After witnessing the vestiges of apartheid, he returned to the states with a renewed spirit to learn and to lead. His experiences made him a better scholar, leader, and person. He concluded by asking the inductees the following: "What will be your impact?" and "Will you leave this world a better place than you found it?" Mr. DeJarnett was presented with a certificate of appreciation for his inspirational and timely address. Closing remarks were delivered by Interim University President Larry Robinson.
